Abstract of DE3804862

Coin-operated game machine with flip card carousels disposed behind related viewing windows, said flip cards displaying symbols, and with a microprocessing computer incorporating a random number generator controlling the course of the game as a whole. Flip cards (6) on each flip card carousel (5) are provided alternately with a symbol either on the face (9) or on the reverse side (10), said symbols being a decisive factor in the game. When the flip card carousels (5) have been advanced, all visible pairs of flip cards (13) remain in a position in which the symbols are concealed; said pairs of cards may subsequently be advanced by one step by means of the computer and/or keys.
